People where the trains are

How far the floor staffing is from the shape of the December timetable — lower is better

Much closer to the December pattern on weekdays, Saturday and Sunday.

People and hours

What it takes to run

	Today	Right Away
People on the link	20	24
Contracted hours a week	35h	35h
Cover weeks (for leave and sickness)	4 — 1 week in 5	4 — 1 week in 6
People needed each Sunday (overtime)	8	10

Four more people, the contract paid exactly — Sundays still rely on overtime.

Fatigue checks

Against the Office of Rail and Road's good-practice list and the rail industry's own checks

	Today	Right Away
Avoidable fatigue warnings	5	0
Most days in a row (limit 13)	9	6
Shortest rest between shifts (limit 12h)	12h 30m	14h 05m
Longest shift	9h 10m	9h 30m

The rest and run limits met with room to spare, and no avoidable fatigue warnings.

Why Right Away?

It meets the brief and puts the floor staff where the trains are

- ✓ Meets all 9 December rules, and all 3 flexible ones
- ✓ Floor staff follow the trains — about half as far off as today on weekdays
- ✓ A full weekend off one week in four — today one in five
- ✓ Never more than 6 days in a row — today 9
- ✓ Every closing shift 30 to 60 minutes shorter
- ✓ No avoidable fatigue warnings

The trade-offs: 12 new shift times to learn, and more late finishes.

What colleagues will notice

The good and the not so good — the colleague presentation shows both

Likely to welcome

- A weekend off one week in four (today one in five)
- At most 6 days in a row (today 9)
- Every closing shift 30–60 minutes shorter
- Never fewer than 3 on the floor (today 2)
- Shortest rest 14h 05m (today 12h 30m)

Likely to worry about

- 12 new shift times; 5 of today's stay
- About one extra late finish every 2–3 weeks
- Longest shift 9h 30m (today 9h 10m)
- Average shift 6 minutes longer
- Best 14-day leave stretch 28 days, not 30

Expect questions on new times and late finishes — the colleague deck answers both.

Where it stands

To decide: which link we use

Colleagues' views come first.

Then: who starts on which line

Who begins on which week of the link.
