Why Second Edition?

What all three shortlisted links give, what this one adds, and what it costs

- ✓ All three shortlisted: all 9 December rules, all 3 flexible ones, no fatigue warning
- ✓ All three shortlisted: about 14 full weekends off a year (today 10), at most 5 apart
- ✓ All three shortlisted: no shift over 9 hours, and every closing shift shorter
- ✓ This one adds: the steadiest starts of the three, 1h 01m week to week (today 4h)
- ✓ 9 of 15 shift times worked today; 6 new, several shorter versions of today's lates
- Costs: 6 days in a row on the fixed rota (today 7); four weeks off 15 days, not 14

Late finishes: 42 a year each (today 39) — the rules' minimum. The colleague deck shows every cost openly.

What colleagues will notice

The good and the not so good — the colleague presentation shows both

Likely to welcome

- 14 full weekends off a year (today 10)
- One turn in 18 of 21 weeks (today 7 of 16)
- Every closing shift 30–45 minutes shorter
- 9 of the 15 shift times already worked
- Shortest rest 14h 20m (today 12h 30m)

Likely to worry about

- Late finishes: 42 a year (today 39)
- 6 new shift times to learn
- Average shift about 2 minutes longer
- Best 14-day leave stretch 28 days, not 30
- Four weeks off needs 15 days' leave, not 14

Expect late finishes to be the first question — the colleague deck answers it openly.

Where it stands

Three things confirmed verbally, two decisions left, two points still open

December rules — confirmed

The nine December rules. Everything here is built on them.

26 people on the link — confirmed

Six more than today, with five cover weeks.

Sunday cover — confirmed

Ten on a Sunday — Sunday work stays overtime.

To decide: which link we use

Colleagues' views come first.

Then: who starts on which line

Who begins on which week. Open: the 13-day limit's written source; the FF19 reading.

Colleagues' views come first; the link is chosen after them, then who starts where.

The detail

- Every week of the link, day by day
